

My light in the closet

Contributed by Rebecka Gomez

Well for many teens, telling their parents and friends that they are gay, lesbian, bisexual, can be hard. There are so many people that look down upon gay/lesbian/bi people because they don't think that it is right. Love is timeless. Love has been around since the dawn of time. Who are they to judge what right love is and what wrong love is? Love has no age, gender, race, and limit. That's is my light that lead me out of the closet. love. No one person can tell me who i should love. no matter the race, age, and especially the gender.

{mos_sb_discuss:2}